THE PRESIDENTIAL ADMINISTRATIVE FELLOWSHIP program exists to advance the objectives and reputation of The George Washington University through the philanthropic, academic, professional, and personal contributions of its Fellows. President Steven Kopp’s strategic initiatives of sustainability, innovation, community, service, engagement, and diversity have directed the Fellows’ efforts this year as they continue their commitment to advancing their alma mater. The following is an overview of the accomplishments and achievements of the individual Fellows and the PAF program during the 2010-2011 academic year.

2010–2011 STRATEGIC INITIATIVES:

SUSTAINABILITY & INNOVATION
- Collin hosted an Office of Sustainability Green Office Assessment to evaluate the Center for Civic Engagement and Public Service’s sustainability practices.
- Collin actively recruited students for the first annual Earth Day service event, offering 150 students the opportunity to assist environmental nonprofits in cleaning public spaces around the Potomac watershed.
- Tura has coordinated and participated in the activities of several University task forces and initiatives, including the Urban Food Task Force, the Career Services Task Force, and the President’s Council on Diversity and Inclusion.
- Daniel was placed with the Innovation Task Force, where he assisted the task force in their efforts to identify and implement new savings and revenue enhancement strategies at the University.
- Collin provided logistical support for the ADRA Yemen Sana’a refugee project. While there, he helped create opportunities for East African refugee clients to volunteer, supported athletic programs, taught conversational English, and assisted with program intake.
- Over Thanksgiving break, Collin volunteered for 10 days with the Adult Protective Services division of the DC Department of Human Services.
- Tura continues to perform community service in the DC metropolitan area as a graduate member of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.
- Anna won a substantial grant to implement an income-generating component within her Girls Kick It! program.

SERVICE & ENGAGEMENT
- This year, all of the Fellows were recognized as members of the Luther Rice Society for their philanthropic leadership. Their collective gifts to the University will amount to over $4,000 this fiscal year.
- Collin mentored a student from the Friendship Collegiate Academy throughout the student’s college application process and matched 15 other volunteers with the DC College Success Foundation to do the same.
- Collin provided logistical support for the ADRA Yemen Sana’a refugee project. While there, he helped create opportunities for East African refugee clients to volunteer, supported athletic programs, taught conversational English, and assisted with program intake.
- Over Thanksgiving break, Collin volunteered for 10 days with the organization All Hands Volunteers, clearing rubble from homes and supporting orphanage staff in Léogâne, Haïti.
- Collin served as a team leader on MLK Day of Service for school beautification projects.
- As a member of the External Relations team, Danielle organized a Division-wide service project at Stanton Elementary School and a library book drive for Ballou High School. Both schools represent GW’s efforts to strengthen its partnerships throughout the District.
- Meaghan traveled to El Entaredro, Panama with the Alternative Winter Break program, where she served as a Learning Partner and worked alongside undergraduates to build 18 juna stoves and 16 daw sand water filters for the community.
- Sandra organized a PAF service day at Stanton Elementary School, where the third to fifth grade students participated in discussions about college and were presented with GW memorabilia and diplomas.
- Collin served as a College Success Foundation mentor this past academic year. His mentee, Rashad Price, received a full-ride Peace scholarship to the University of Wisconsin-Madison and is also a Gates Millennium Scholar finalist.
- Anna traveled to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil with her Girls Kick It! team to compete in the Homeless World Cup.
- Anna served as the Precinct Captain and an active member of the Young Professionals for Gray group during the DC mayoral race.
- Tura continues to perform community service in the DC metropolitan area as a graduate member of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.
- As a board member for Student Veterans of America, Brian H. served numerous hours of community service, working for student veterans. He worked to bring First Lady Michelle Obama to GW's Freshman Day of Service at the Vinson Hall Retirement Community, during which he served as site leader for more than 150 volunteers, including Mrs. Obama. This past October, he was recognized with the President's Volunteer Service Award, having accumulated more than 4,000 community service hours. He continues to mentor wounded warriors and their families in the DC area through their transition from the battlefield to the classroom.
- Caitie organized PAF participation in Adopt-A-Family during the Christmas season. She personally adopted a family of three to make their holiday season a little brighter.
- Caitie served as a Learning Partner for the Alternative Winter Break Trip to New Orleans. The group worked on three houses and painted a middle school during the weeklong trip.
- Meaghan ran the Marine Corps Marathon, as a member of the charity team for the American Cancer Society, where she raised $1,275. Meaghan also coordinated “Team GCU,” a group of GW students, to take part in the National MS Society’s Walk MS.
- Natalie traveled as a Learning Partner to El Progreso, Honduras with 15 students from the Alternative Winter Break program. On this trip, the group worked with Organization for Youth Empowerment (OYE) to enhance school facilities, discuss the country’s social and political climate post-coup, and work with young Honduran leaders in an environment of artistic expression and cultural exchange.
- Kelley continued her involvement in public service within the Washington, DC community through the Federal City Alumni Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc.
- One of the accomplishments of which Shaker is most proud is that a student—whom he mentored for the last four years—was accepted to Clemson University, his dream school.
- Shaker joined the Board of Directors of the Generation Why Movement (GWM), a small nonprofit that serves as an online resource for young professionals.
- In the past year, Brian H. has participated in extensive military training around the country, including more than a dozen Airborne operations, jumping from aircraft, while in flight. In August of 2010, he completed the extremely challenging U.S. Army Jumpmaster course at Fort Benning, GA on his first attempt, and he continues to take on leadership roles in his Army Reserve unit, the 459th Civil Affairs Battalion (Airborne).
For his capstone project, Chris and five other members of his program designed an assessment tool for the GradLife office at GW.

Sandra completed a communications plan for Boumi, a for-profit business based out of Kabul, Afghanistan, to help the company enter the U.S. and European markets. Boumi continues to create long-term employment opportunities for Afghan women and men.

Collin is currently researching the efficacy of government intervention in tribal conflict mitigation, and the prevention of such conflicts’ escalation into violence in Yemen.

As part of her placement in the Department of Health Policy, Selam worked on the Sub-Saharan African Medical Schools Study (SAMSS). Selam served as a member of the SAMSS secretariat and has co-authored the report “The Sub-Saharan African Medical School Study: Data, Observation, and Opportunity” and an article in The Lancet medical journal entitled “Medical Schools in Africa to the Community of Excellence in Medical Education and Research.”

For her Capstone Experience for the M.P.H. program, Brittany wrote a 20-page memo to Joshua Sharfstein, Secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, and proposed options for increasing seasonal influenza immunization rates among hospital health care workers in the state of Maryland.

As part of her graduate coursework, Brian E. wrote a paper on the implications of a nuclear-armed Iran on the American security architecture in the Persian Gulf.

As part of the Medical Education Partnership Initiative (MEPI), Selam is assisting in the development of a web-based communications platform to share MEPI outcomes and data, connecting medical schools in Africa to the Community of Excellence in Medical Education and Research.

For her M.P.A. capstone project, Natalie worked in a group of four as a pro-bono consultant for the DC Department of Transportation’s DC Streetcar project. The group provided DDOT with a qualitative case analysis of value capture mechanisms, which are utilized around the country for similar projects.

Sandra re-designed the PAF website, created two videos highlighting both the Program and the Lindsey M. Ferris Memorial PAF Scholarship Fund, and created a social media presence for PAF, in order to better engage prospective Fellows and alumni.

Tara currently staffs the newly created GW Board of Trustees’ Committee on Diversity and Inclusion.

Shakir served and staffed the Diversity and Inclusion Task Force, and was involved in the recruitment and selection of the Vice Provost for Diversity and Inclusion.

Chris volunteered all year as a Student Judicial Services Graduate Justice, hearing disciplinary cases for the University.

Brian E. served as an admissions liaison for GW’s Middle East Studies program.

Brittany served as the 2010-2011 President of the Public Health Student Association (PHSA), which is open to the 1000+ students enrolled in degree programs within the GW School of Public Health and Health Services (SPHHS). In this role, Brittany worked with her executive board members, and numerous other student organizations within SPHHS, to plan an array of educational, networking, social, and service events for fellow students throughout the year. Noteworthy events included an evening of music and discussion on HIV/AIDS with renowned Malawian musician Peter Mawanga, participation in the annual Foggy Bottom/West End Neighborhood Block Party, a University-wide public health career fair, a public health seminar and campus tour for local high school students, and a documentary screening on HIV/AIDS in India, featuring actress Ashley Judd.

During her time as a PAF, Brittany has also served as the student representative of the SPHHS Curriculum Committee (2009-2011), as an alternate student member of the GW Institutional Review Board (2009-2011), and as a member of the GW Urban Food Task Force (2010).

Chris served as the first PAF in the Office of the Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs. Through this placement he wrote a report on the current state of services for graduate students at GW and offered many suggestions on ways to enhance the graduate student experience.

As part of the Department of Emergency Medicine’s ongoing mission to improve alumni relations, Meaghan spearheaded the design of the alumni resident section of the website and is responsible for managing the alumni database.

Meaghan serves as the student representative for the School of Public Health and Health Services on Provost Lemon’s Medical Advancement Advisory Committee, where she is also a member of the Governance sub-committee. Meaghan also serves on the Urban Food Task Force.

Sandra worked with the Institute for Corporate Responsibility, creating a research consortium to address the issue of sustainable commodities, writing a white paper to establish the effort, and building proposals for two local research opportunities for businesses and students.

Brian H. has been substantially involved in the drafting and implementation of veteran’s policy at GW, and has continued to work as an advocate for student veterans within the University by working to bring change to how veterans are treated in the classroom. Specifically, he has worked with GW administrators to bring about a military absence policy, as well as assisted academic departments in properly evaluating military experience for academic credit. He continues to speak to many student groups and faculty members about veterans, their strengths, and the challenges in their transitions to academics.

Brian H. received the 2011 Martin Luther King, Jr. Award.
• MEAGHAN researched several business models and manipulated them to apply to the healthcare setting in a paper submitted to the Annals of Emergency Medicine journal titled “Value in Emergency Medicine: Assessment and Implications.”

• In her placement, MEAGHAN is the clinical research study coordinator on three different studies in the Department of Emergency Medicine— “Direct Detection and Characterization of MRSA and Clinical Outcomes in ED Patients with Positive SSTI,” “Capsule Endoscopy for Hemorrhage in the Emergency Room,” and “H. Pylori Testing for Patients with Non-Specific Abdominal Pain in the Emergency Department.” Through this role, she has worked with principal investigators to submit two abstracts to the American College of Emergency Physicians’ conference, to take place in October of 2011.

• ANNA traveled to the 2010 GW Global Forum in New York City to serve as a panel responder and student representative.

• ANNA traveled to Florida with the Provost to speak to local alumni on the power of undergraduate scholarships.

• Through his placement in the Center for Civic Engagement and Public Service, COLLIN helped grow the community of service-oriented students through proactive outreach and marketing of opportunities and accomplishments.

• As part of her practicum experience, SELAM helped create the GW Healthy Mothers Program to provide lactation support for nursing mothers on campus. She performed a literature review of best practices and compiled a resource handbook for the Program. Selam also drafted the school’s first policy on lactation support for nursing mothers.

• In an attempt to foster a sense of community between GW and its neighbors, DARNELL, with the help of former PAF Sarah Jo Lawrence, organized a community basketball game, where members of the Foggy Bottom community were invited to show their Colonial pride at a GW women’s basketball game.

• DARNELL, along with members of the Office of Government, International and Community Relations, participated in various GW service initiatives, including the Foggy Bottom Clean-Up, MLK Day of Service, and Freshman Day of Service.

• As part of his placement in the Office of Government, International and Community Relations, DARNELL helped plan the eighth Annual Foggy Bottom/West End Neighborhood Block Party. The event welcomed over 2,000 members of the Foggy Bottom community to enjoy food, music, and more.

• As part of his placement in the Office of Government, International and Community Relations, DARNELL helped plan the eighth Annual Foggy Bottom/West End Neighborhood Block Party. The event welcomed over 2,000 members of the Foggy Bottom community to enjoy food, music, and more.

• TERA has served as an advocate for multiple student organizations and over 100 individuals within the GW community.

• In the fall and winter of 2010, BRIAN H. worked closely with other universities and veteran service organizations to advocate on Capitol Hill for the Post 9/11 Veterans Educational Assistance Improvements Act of 2010, which substantially improved GI bill benefits for hundreds of thousands of veterans around the country. It ultimately passed the Senate unanimously and was signed into law by President Obama on January 4, 2011. For his efforts, he received a signing pen from both President Obama and then-Speaker of the House, Nancy Pelosi.

• CHERI interned with the GW Leadership Programs office in the Student Activities Center and created an exciting new leadership initiative, the Leadership Council, which will work on both individual and group leadership development in a yearlong cohort process.

• DANIEL was selected into Beta Gamma Sigma, an international honor society, in recognition for placing in the top 10% of GW’s M.B.A. program.

• DANIEL traveled to Santiago, Chile during the summer of 2010 to study international business at the University of Chile with a focus on the Chilean wine industry.

• DANIEL and a team of five other students wrote a marketing plan for an MIT fitness device start-up company.

• As part of his placement, BRIAN E. helped coordinate the Homeland Security Policy Institute’s Ambassador Roundtable Series, which brings foreign ambassadors to campus for discussions on issues related to counterradicalism and counterterrorism. He also worked to coordinate the Institute’s Policy and Research Forum, which hosts experts to discuss a range of homeland and national security issues.

• As part of her Cumulating Experience, SELAM wrote a policy memo to Washington, DC councilmember Mary Cheh on how to increase breast-feeding rates among working mothers in the District.

• DARNELL served as a Learning Partner for the Alternative Winter Break trip to Guatemala in January. There, along with 18 GW students, he performed service projects and met with the President and First Lady of Guatemala.

• SHAKEE studied abroad during spring break in Nantes, France where he studied corporate social responsibility at Audencia University. He was accepted to the GW/Oxford law program where he will study international human rights this summer at Oxford.

• SHAKEE participated in a service-learning initiative at Ballou High School, where he met with students to develop and implement a service project.

• NADIA recently completed her 200-hour level Yoga Alliance certification through GW’s Department of Exercise Science. Nadia is now registered as a certified yoga instructor through the Yoga Alliance. Look for her classes soon!

• MEAGHAN constructed, and now manages, a risk management database for the Department of Emergency Medicine providers that practice at Prince George’s Hospital Center.

• A study was published in the American Journal of Preventive Medicine titled “Direct Detection and Characterization of MRSA and Clinical Outcomes in ED Patients with Positive SSTI,” which includes the work of COLLIN and a team of researchers.

• BRIAN E. was accepted into Middlebury College’s intensive Arabic language training program, an eight-week immersion program, which completely forbids the use of English.

• BRITTANY completed her M.P.H. practicum requirement as an intern at Sanofi Pasteur, the world’s largest vaccine manufacturer. In this role, Brittany worked under the Director of Immunization Policy and Government Relations and performed research, drafted memoranda, wrote and edited talking points, compiled slide decks, and attended a variety of meetings relevant to U.S. and global immunization policy issues.

• As a part of her placement in the SPHHS Dean’s Office, BRITTANY had the opportunity to travel to Denver, CO in November 2010 to represent SPHHS at the annual American Public Health Association meeting.

• BRITTANY was recently inducted into the Delta Omega Honorary Society in Public Health. Student membership in Delta Omega is based on scholastic performance and maintaining a cumulative GPA of 3.8 or higher, throughout a public health graduate degree program. In addition, Brittany served as a Chair’s Policy Scholar in the Department of Health Policy throughout her graduate studies.

• SELAM represented GW at the first Medical Education Partnership Initiative Symposium from March 7th-9th, in Johannesburg, South Africa.

• BRIAN E.’s research has been accepted by the Journal for Social Service Research and the Annual Meeting of the American Sociological Association.

• SHAKIR, a master's student in International Health, has completed a Spring 2011 Practicum at WHO headquarters in Geneva. He served as a policy analyst in the Division of Information and Communication, where he worked with health officials from around the world to study international public health policy issues.

• RAY was elected to leadership positions in a number of student organizations, including the Undergraduate Senate and the W&G Activities Board, and was selected to the 2011 GW Student Government cabinet.

• ANNA traveled to Florida with the Provost to speak to local alumni on the power of undergraduate scholarships.

• MEAGHAN researched several business models and manipulated them to apply to the healthcare setting in a paper submitted to the Annals of Emergency Medicine journal titled “Value in Emergency Medicine: Assessment and Implications.”

• In her placement, MEAGHAN is the clinical research study coordinator on three different studies in the Department of Emergency Medicine— “Direct Detection and Characterization of MRSA and Clinical Outcomes in ED Patients with positive SSTI,” “Capsule Endoscopy for Hemorrhage in the Emergency Room,” and “H. Pylori Testing for Patients with Non-Specific Abdominal Pain in the Emergency Department.” Through this role, she has worked with principal investigators to submit two abstracts to the American College of Emergency Physicians’ conference, to take place in October of 2011.

• ANNA traveled to the 2010 GW Global Forum in New York City to serve as a panel responder and student representative.

• ANNA traveled to Florida with the Provost to speak to local alumni on the power of undergraduate scholarships.

• Through his placement in the Center for Civic Engagement and Public Service, COLLIN helped grow the community of service-oriented students through proactive outreach and marketing of opportunities and accomplishments.

• As part of her practicum experience, SELAM helped create the GW Healthy Mothers Program to provide lactation support for nursing mothers on campus. She performed a literature review of best practices and compiled a resource handbook for the Program. Selam also drafted the school’s first policy on lactation support for nursing mothers.

• In an attempt to foster a sense of community between GW and its neighbors, DARNELL, with the help of former PAF Sarah Jo Lawrence, organized a community basketball game, where members of the Foggy Bottom community were invited to show their Colonial pride at a GW women’s basketball game.

• DARNELL, along with members of the Office of Government, International and Community Relations, participated in various GW service initiatives, including the Foggy Bottom Clean-Up, MLK Day of Service, and Freshman Day of Service.

• As part of his placement in the Office of Government, International and Community Relations, DARNELL helped plan the eighth Annual Foggy Bottom/West End Neighborhood Block Party. The event welcomed over 2,000 members of the Foggy Bottom community, West End, and greater DC community.

• Within his placement, DARNELL also worked with GW administrators and various DC officials in the planning and implementation of a District-wide initiative to address unemployment in DC. These efforts directly coincide with his academic interest in social policy.

• In her placement in the Center for Civic Engagement and Public Service, NADIA led in the creation of the “We Serve: A Civic House” Living and Learning Cohort, a service-learning based residential life program for first-year students. Civic House students live, serve, and learn together in West Hall on the Mount Vernon Campus, taking a service-learning course together each semester, and building a sense of community through service projects across the city.

• TERA has served as an advocate for multiple student organizations and over 100 individuals within the GW community.

• In the fall and winter of 2010, BRIAN H. worked closely with other universities and veteran service organizations to advocate on Capitol Hill for the Post 9/11 Veterans Educational Assistance Improvements Act of 2010, which substantially improved GI bill benefits for hundreds of thousands of veterans around the country. It ultimately passed the Senate unanimously and was signed into law by President Obama on January 4, 2011. For his efforts, he received a signing pen from both President Obama and then-Speaker of the House, Nancy Pelosi.

• CHERI interned with the GW Leadership Programs office in the Student Activities Center and created an exciting new leadership initiative, the Leadership Council, which will work on both individual and group leadership development in a yearlong cohort process.
• Meaghan assisted with the administration of over 150 flu shots as part of the Department of Emergency Medicine’s OnSite Medical Access Flu Shot Campaign 2010.

• Meaghan worked with the directors of the Innovative Practice section of the Department of Emergency Medicine to coordinate a telemedicine seminar series and summer institute.

• Darnell and Chris helped welcome student leaders from across the District and the surrounding area at GW’s Student Leadership Welcome Ceremony.

• Natalie serves as a teaching assistant for Professor Emily Morrison’s Issues in Human Services course, working with a group of 8-10 students each semester to develop community-based research projects, around course, working with a group of 8-10 students.

• Natalie has also spent the past two years working with the Issues in Human Services class to identify and map the social services available in metropolitan Washington, DC. In fall of 2010, Natalie launched The BRIDGE Project DC website, providing the DC community with an interactive social service resource hub (with currently over 700 resources listed). This project is an attempt to bridge the gap between information and access for those in need and the providers who strive to serve them.

In addition to their numerous individual and small group accomplishments, the Fellows participated in many GW initiatives and community service projects:

The Luther Rice Society
Mentored DC high school students through the College Success Foundation
Fall 2010 Freshman Move-In
The 2010 Graduate Student Welcome Ceremony
GW’s inaugural breakfast for DC Mayor Vincent Gray
Alumni Weekend 2010
Freshman Day of Service
Colonials Weekend 2010, featuring comedian Jimmy Fallon
GW Global Forum 2010
2011 MLK Day of Service
Commencement Dinner and Commencement on the National Mall
The FRIENDS annual Foggy Bottom/West End Neighborhood Block Party
Fellowship information sessions for prospective applicants
The GW/Lindsey Ferris Memorial Invitational for Gymnastics and luncheon
Served as mentors to GW freshmen through the Guide to Personal Success program
The GW Service Excellence Celebration
The 9th Annual Senior Prom, hosted by the Office of Community Service
The Office of Community Service’s “Adopt-a-Family” program

• Bella contributed to the administration of over 150 flu shots as part of the Department of Emergency Medicine’s OnSite Medical Access Flu Shot Campaign 2010.

• Bella worked with the directors of the Innovative Practice section of the Department of Emergency Medicine to coordinate a telemedicine seminar series and summer institute.

• Turn was invited to attend the 2011 Association of Governing Boards National Conference in Los Angeles, California.

• Natalie assists with the administration of over 150 flu shots as part of the Department of Emergency Medicine’s OnSite Medical Access Flu Shot Campaign 2010.

• Natalie worked with the directors of the Innovative Practice section of the Department of Emergency Medicine to coordinate a telemedicine seminar series and summer institute.

• Natalie has also spent the past two years working with the Issues in Human Services class to identify and map the social services available in metropolitan Washington, DC. In fall of 2010, Natalie launched The BRIDGE Project DC website, providing the DC community with an interactive social service resource hub (with currently over 700 resources listed). This project is an attempt to bridge the gap between information and access for those in need and the providers who strive to serve them.

In addition to their numerous individual and small group accomplishments, the Fellows participated in many GW initiatives and community service projects:

The Luther Rice Society
Mentored DC high school students through the College Success Foundation
Fall 2010 Freshman Move-In
The 2010 Graduate Student Welcome Ceremony
GW’s inaugural breakfast for DC Mayor Vincent Gray
Alumni Weekend 2010
Freshman Day of Service
Colonials Weekend 2010, featuring comedian Jimmy Fallon
GW Global Forum 2010
2011 MLK Day of Service
Commencement Dinner and Commencement on the National Mall
The FRIENDS annual Foggy Bottom/West End Neighborhood Block Party
Fellowship information sessions for prospective applicants
The GW/Lindsey Ferris Memorial Invitational for Gymnastics and luncheon
Served as mentors to GW freshmen through the Guide to Personal Success program
The GW Service Excellence Celebration
The 9th Annual Senior Prom, hosted by the Office of Community Service
The Office of Community Service’s “Adopt-a-Family” program

MEET THE FELLOWS BIOGRAPHIES

Daniel Bernstein, Voorhees, NJ, graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts in sociology. Bernstein will graduate with a Master in Business Administration, with a concentration in finance, in May 2011, with Beta Gamma Sigma distinction. As an undergraduate, he served as a GW Student Association senator, a University Hearing Board justice, and a founding father and recruitment chairman for Sigma Chi Fraternity. Scholaristically, Daniel is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, a GW Presidential Scholarship recipient, and an Outstanding Academic Achievement scholar. As a graduate student, Daniel has served as an Academic Integrity Council member, an M.B.A. student ambassador, and also volunteers his time with six freshmen menesse through the GPS program. Daniel has most recently worked in the Office of the President, as a member of the Innovation Task Force, and also at Capitol Partners, a private equity firm. His past internships include working at: Deloitte Consulting, LLP in their Strategy & Operations division, the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), the Public Defender Service for the District of Columbia Special Litigation Division, and HALT—An Organization of Americans for Legal Reform.

Kelley Stokes, West Bloomfield, MI, graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in English in May 2010. She is currently pursuing a Master of Public Administration in nonprofit communications and marketing, and is placed as a communications specialist in the School of Engineering and Applied Science. During her four semesters in the PAF program, Kelley worked as a development officer for the Luther Rice Society in the Division of Development and Alumni Relations. Kelley is a passionate advocate for GW and its community. As an undergraduate, she was heavily involved in campus life through activities such as the GW Troubadours a cappella group, 2008 Colonial Cabinet, and Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. As a senior, she led the University’s most successful Senior Class Gift campaign to date, raising over $77,000 for various GW initiatives, and she was recognized as the 2010 Greek Woman of the Year. As an alumna, Kelley serves as a member of the Luther Rice Society advisory council and the Harmon Chord Associates Board.

Darnell Calette, Stone Mountain, GA, graduated in 2010 with a Bachelor of Arts in political science. As an undergraduate, he maintained active campus participation through programs like the Colonial Cabinet, and he also explored service beyond the Foggy Bottom Campus through organizations like Teach for America and JumpStart. He is currently pursuing a Master of Public Policy in the Trachtenberg School of Public Policy and Public Administration. As a first-year Fellow, he has worked in the Office of Government, International and Community Relations. His focus has been on local Foggy Bottom and DC relations, where his efforts have been channeled towards strengthening GW’s commitment to being a good neighbor, in and of DC.

Brian Engel, Burnt Hills, NY, graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in international affairs and political science. He is pursuing a Master of Arts in Middle East studies. Brian’s research interests include Middle East security issues, particularly as they relate to the Persian Gulf, and U.S. foreign policy in the region. As an undergraduate, Brian was a research assistant in the Institute for National Strategic Studies at the National Defense University and an intern in the Embassy of Iraq’s Commercial Office. In 2009, he studied Arabic at the Qasid Arabic Institute in Amman, Jordan. Brian currently works in GW’s Homeland Security Policy Institute.

Anna Phillips, San Diego, CA, was a Fulbright Scholar to Uganda from 2008-2009, researching gender quotas and affirmative action policies for women in the Ugandan Parliament. Anna was a Rhodes Scholar finalist in 2008. In 2006, she founded Girls Kick It!, a comprehensive women’s sports empowerment program for women in Northern Uganda. The Girls Kick It! program has worked with over 300 women and competed in several countries, including the United States, Denmark, and a recent tournament in Brazil. Anna spent her winter break working in Uganda and visiting fellow PAF Selam Bedada in Ethiopia. She spent her spring break in Central America, conducting an impact evaluation for a USAID access to labor justice program. Anna also served as Care International’s Kenyan American Soccer Exchange program coordinator, in conjunction with Nike, Inc. and the U.S. Department of State. Anna is pursuing a Master of Arts in international development studies with a focus on democracy and governance. She is currently placed in GW’s Office of Corporate and Foundation Relations.

Anna was placed in GW’s Office of Corporate and Foundation Relations.

While on their fall retreat, PAFs volunteered to clean up the Raccoon Point beach area in Somerset County, Maryland.
Brittany Plavchak, Jefferson Hills, PA, graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Science in public health (with a biology minor and premedical concentration) in 2009 and will receive her Master of Public Health in health policy in 2011. Throughout Brittany's six years at GW, she interned with former U.S. Representative Melissa Hart (R-PA), worked as the first research assistant in a program on human subjects research and ethics at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, performed clinical and clerical duties as a student medical assistant for an internal medicine physician, and performed research for the GW Department of Health Policy on health disparities, obesity, menu labeling, and the health and wellness provisions of the Affordable Care Act. Brittany has also assisted Dean Lynn Goldman of SPHHS in her transition to campus and provided assistance in forming the first-ever dean's advisory council. She has represented the SPHHS at numerous public health events and conferences, including the most recent American Public Health Association meeting in Denver, Colorado. Lastly, she has compiled memos, talking points, presentations, etc. on pertinent vaccine policy issues for Sandu Pastore, one of the world’s largest vaccine manufacturers. In addition to her professional duties, Brittany served on numerous task forces and committees at GW, including the SPHHS Curriculum Committee, the Urban Food Task Force, and the GW Institutional Review Board. Lastly, she has helped to facilitate an array of educational, service, networking, and professional development opportunities for students, in her role as President of the GW Public Health Student Association. Brittany was recently selected to Sands Pastore’s Management Associate Program, a three-year program that entails extensive rotational assignments in various sectors of the company, such as marketing and sales, strategic planning, public policy, and internal communications.

Melissa Hart (R-PA), worked as the first research assistant in a program on human subjects research and ethics at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, performed clinical and clerical duties as a student medical assistant for an internal medicine physician, and performed research for the GW Department of Health Policy on health disparities, obesity, menu labeling, and the health and wellness provisions of the Affordable Care Act. Brittany has also assisted Dean Lynn Goldman of SPHHS in her transition to campus and provided assistance in forming the first-ever dean’s advisory council. She has represented the SPHHS at numerous public health events and conferences, including the most recent American Public Health Association meeting in Denver, Colorado. Lastly, she has compiled memos, talking points, presentations, etc. on pertinent vaccine policy issues for Sandu Pastore, one of the world’s largest vaccine manufacturers. In addition to her professional duties, Brittany served on numerous task forces and committees at GW, including the SPHHS Curriculum Committee, the Urban Food Task Force, and the GW Institutional Review Board. Lastly, she has helped to facilitate an array of educational, service, networking, and professional development opportunities for students, in her role as President of the GW Public Health Student Association. Brittany was recently selected to Sands Pastore’s Management Associate Program, a three-year program that entails extensive rotational assignments in various sectors of the company, such as marketing and sales, strategic planning, public policy, and internal communications.

Meaghan Smith, Pleasant Valley, NY, graduated magna cum laude with a Bachelor of Science in public health and a minor in biological sciences. She is pursuing a Master of Public Health with a concentration in epidemiology. Throughout her time at GW, Meaghan was a member of the NCAADD 1 veteran’s cross country team, where she served as team captain. Meaghan also served as a student model for the Student Athlete Advisory Council, worked as a biomedical research assistant in the Department of Microbiology, Immunology and Tropical Medicine studying the human hookworm infective process, worked as a medical assistant at Capital Women’s Care/OBGYN, volunteered with Project HEALTH at the Children’s National Medical Center, volunteered at the Perry School Community Services Center with Bright Beginnings, Inc., and completed her EMT-B certification for the District of Columbia. Meaghan also serves as a student representative on Provost Lerman’s Medical Center Advisory Committee, and is a member of the Urban Food Task Force. She is most famous among the PAE cohort for being a member of “Team WIN.” Meaghan is currently placed in the Department of Emergency Medicine.

Shakir Cannon-Mayo, Edgewater Park, NJ, graduated with a Bachelor of Business Administration, with a dual concentration in finance and sport management and a minor in sociology. He is pursuing a Master of Business Administration with a concentration in strategic management. Shakir supplements his graduate studies, and aspirations to pursue a career in management consulting, by working in Human Resources. He also serves on the Innovation Task Force and the Diversity and Inclusion Committee. Throughout his time at the University, Shakir has been involved in volunteer capacities through GW’s chapter of Upward Bound, Big Brothers Big Sisters, REE Mentoring Program, and as a mentor with LearnServe International. He currently performs research with the Institute for Corporate Responsibility on the development and implementation of public-private partnerships.

Sandra Perez, Boca Raton, FL, graduated cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts in political communication in 2009. Sandra will receive her Masters of Arts in global communication, with a concentration in urban geography, in 2011 and will be participating in the DC Triathlon this June. She just completed her 30-Day Challenge at Bikram Yoga Dupont in March, and around service-learning and community engagement, through the synergy of academic course curriculum and co-curricular programming. Natalie also completed a 30-Day Challenge at Bikram Yoga Dupont in March, and will participate in the DC Triathlon this June. She just completed her Yoga Alliance certification through GW and is now a certified yoga instructor.

Natalie Kaplan, Greensboro, NC, a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Pi Alpha Alpha, graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts in human services, and will complete her Master of Public Administration, with a concentration in urban geography, this May. For the past five semesters, she has served as a teaching assistant for the Human Services program, working with students to map social services and create a comprehensive resource guide and interactive website for the District. In her first year of PAE, Natalie contributed to the building design and programming of the West Residence Hall and campus life center on the Mount Vernon Campus. Currently, Natalie works for the Center for Civic Engagement and Public Service, building capacity around service-learning and community engagement, through the synergy of academic course curriculum and co-curricular programming. Natalie also completed a 30-Day Challenge at Bikram Yoga Dupont in March, and participating in the DC Triathlon this June. She just completed her Yoga Alliance certification through GW and is now a certified yoga instructor.

Collin Stevenson, Lake Tappi, WA, graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in international affairs and is pursuing a Master of Arts in Middle East studies. As an undergraduate, he was a recipient of the GW Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Award, the Outstanding Student Service Award, and the Buer Award for Individual Excellence. This year, he served as a Learning Partner for the Alternative Break trip to Costa Rica. Collin is placed in the Center for Civic Engagement and Public Service and is dedicated to growing the culture of service at GW. He volunteered with Sudanese refugees in Cairo, Egypt last year. He also studied and worked with East African refugees, and for a national newspaper in Yemen, last summer. After graduation, Collin will be doing intelligence as a Second Lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force.

Selam Bedada, Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, graduated in 2009 with a Bachelor of Science in international affairs, with a concentration in economics and development. As a Fellow, Selam was placed in the GW Department of Health Policy and worked on the Sub-Saharan African Medical School Study (SASSM). As a member of the SASSM secretariat, Selam co-authored the findings of the SASSM study, both in a report published by GW and in a Lancet medical journal article, published online in November of last year. Selam is currently working on the Medical Education Partnership Initiative (MEPI) research project at GW and is assisting in development of a web-based communications platform to connect medical schools in Africa to the Community of Excellence in Medical Education and Research. As part of the MEPI team, Selam traveled to Johannesburg, South Africa and represented GW at the first annual Medical Education Partnership Initiative Symposium. She graduates this year with a Master of Public Health with a focus in health policy. After graduation, Selam will transition to a full-time research associate position in the Department of Health Policy and will continue her dedicated work with MEPI.

For the past five semesters, she has served as a teaching assistant for the Human Services program, working with students to map social services and create a comprehensive resource guide and interactive website for the District. In her first year of PAE, Natalie contributed to the building design and programming of the West Residence Hall and campus life center on the Mount Vernon Campus. Currently, Natalie works for the Center for Civic Engagement and Public Service, building capacity around service-learning and community engagement, through the synergy of academic course curriculum and co-curricular programming. Natalie also completed a 30-Day Challenge at Bikram Yoga Dupont in March, and participating in the DC Triathlon this June. She just completed her Yoga Alliance certification through GW and is now a certified yoga instructor.